Door County In The Winter

Door County Wisconsin is a great place to visit in the spring, summer and fall, but winter is special in many ways. Winter in Wisconsin with snow and colder temperatures is not that far away. If you are looking for a nice weekend away this winter, Door County is a destination worth considering. We head to Door County for New Years for a relaxing few days.

Granted, not as many businesses are open in the winter, but we find those that are open are far more relaxed. The other seasons of Door County are busier and have more visitors. For some, that is a good reason as any to visit in the winter.

Sitting in front of a fireplace with a cozy fire at a lodge or restaurant is very relaxing.

And so is curling up with a book and watching the snow fall. Snowshoeing and cross-country skiing are fun outdoor activities in Door County in the winter. So is just taking in the beauty of Door County in the winter.

Cave Point County Park

Cave Point is a cool place to visit any time when you are in Door County. In the winter, it is something with ice coating most surfaces, and if the lake is not frozen, the waves will be adding to the ice.

Lighthouses

Door County Lighthouses are harder to get to in the winter. Eagle Bluff in the park is fun to snowshoe up to in the winter. Cana Island is a little harder, but can still be accessible. Check with the Visitor Bureau.

Gills Rock

Gills Rock at the tip of Door County in the winter can be amazing. Depending on wind, waves, and storms, the ice builds up on the buildings, and structures. Be careful on the ice, it is slippery.
